Jules Believes He is Just Perfect
.....But Is He?

Jules believes he is just perfect. He is the perfect height, perfect weight, perfect color, and even has the perfect howl. There is no doubt about it. In any and every way, Jules knows that he is just perfect.

That is until one day Jules finds himself at a dog park surrounded by dogs who are nothing like him. At first he feels sorry for these less than perfect dogs but when he sees that they can do things that he cannot, he begins to question if he is just perfect after all.

After a long day of watching the other dogs and seeing how happy they are, Jules learns that there are many ways to be just perfect and finally understands what being perfect truly means.

Written to entertain and inspire the young, old, and everyone in between, Just Perfect: More Adventures of Jules the Lighthouse Dog is the sequel to the popular Jules the Lighthouse Dog. Both stories are based on a real dog named Jules who lived with author P.T. Custard in the lighthouse keeper's quarters at the Pt. Loma Lighthouse in San Diego from 2003 - 2005. The house they lived in was known as the Top Gun house having been used in the film of the same name. An unassuming family dog, Jules gained a fan-base as the official greeter who met the myriad fans who would wander onto the grounds and into the house.
